An Unpleasant Rumor.

The citizens were awfully acared last night by a rumor that the body of Cawley, who murdered his mother, had been found in the Water Works reservoir. Cawley was last seen near there and there was an halo of probability about the rumor that make it especially alarming to these who drink hydrant water, far it was unpleasant for any one to reflect that he had been drinking water from a reservoir in which a dead man had laid for months. Frumately the rumor appears to months. F runately the russor appears to have no foundation.
